HEALTH CONCERNS POLICY

It is the operative's responsibility to report any health concerns that may occur from work related activates. It is better if these health concerns are reported early so that an appropriate assessment can be carried out and advice given, if necessary.

There are many health concerns that may affect operatives, these could be hand-arm vibration syndrome, noise-induced hearing-loss, musculo-skeletal disorders, etc.

It is necessary for operatives to carry out annual medical surveys.
